1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 110 111 112 113	NORTHERN DISTRI	DISTRICT COURT ICT OF CALIFORNIA SCO DIVISION
14	WAYMO LLC,	CASE NO. 3:17-cv-00939-WHA
15	Plaintiff, v.	SUPPLEMENTAL BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF WAYMO LLC'S
16 17	UBER TECHNOLOGIES, INC.;	MOTION TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF WITHHELD DOCUMENTS
18	OTTOMOTTO LLC; OTTO TRUCKING LLC,
19	Defendants.	PUBLIC REDACTED VERSION OF DOCUMENT SOUGHT TO BE SEALED
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
		No. 3:17-cv-00939-WHA

SUPPLEMENTAL BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF WAYMO'S MOTION TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF WITHHELD DOCUMENTS

1	Pursuant to the Court's authorization at the May 25, 2017 hearing (5/25/2017 Hr'g Tr. at
2	28:21-23), Plaintiff Waymo LLC ("Waymo") hereby submits this supplemental brief in support of
3	its Motion To Compel Withheld Documents (the "Motion") (Dkt. 321).
4	INTRODUCTION
5	Defendants have now produced a fully un-redacted version of the February 22, 2016 Term
6	Sheet for Uber's acquisition of Otto, including the at Exhibit C. The
7	newly provided information further establishes that the "due diligence" materials are not subject to
8	any valid claim of privilege.
9	The newly produced evidence confirms that the "Outside Expert" conducting the due
10	diligence activities was operating as who was
11	preparing a to produce to
12	. (Ex. 12 at -7572, -7569 (emphasis added).) ¹ This
13	evidence establishes that there is no possible claim of attorney-client privilege over the
14	communications between This also undermines
15	Defendants' work product claims as it indicates that the Outside Expert was merely reporting to
16	, and not working at their direction in anticipation of litigation.
17	Additionally, the newly produced information confirms that the Term Sheet called for
18	these due diligence efforts to be undertaken and completed for a business, and not a legal purpose.
19	The information demonstrates that the was required to
20	(Id. at -7566 (emphasis added).) While Exhibit C to
21	the Term Sheet includes a provision that
22	no similar provision prevented Uber
23	from
24	. (Id. at -7569.) This reinforces the conclusion that the entire due
25
26	References to "Ex" are to the accompanying Declaration of Patrick Schmidt. Exhibit
27	numbering begins at Exhibit 12, to maintain continuity with Exhibits 1-8 to Waymo's Opening Brief and 9-11 to its Reply Brief. Pin cites correspond to the last four digits of the Bates number diligence process was conducted in furtherance of an arms-length, commercial transaction, which is not entitled to the protections of the common interest doctrine. As such, the sharing of the due diligence materials amongst the members of the purported joint defense group waived any applicable claim of privilege.
28	of the cited page.

Finally, the previously redacted material confirms that the due diligence efforts were primarily directed towards collecting and compiling factual information pursuant to a commercial transaction between parties that were at arms-length to one another. Exhibit C to the Term Sheet itself defines as the report produced by (Id. at -7569 (emphasis added).) Under these circumstances, no possible claim of attorney-client or work product privilege can attach to what is undeniably factual material collected pursuant to a At a minimum, the factual nature of the due diligence investigation defeats any possible claim that the materials were opinion work product, rendering them at least discoverable in light of Waymo's "substantial need."

BACKGROUND

Defendants are withholding from production documents relating to a "due diligence" investigation conducted by Stroz Friedberg ("Stroz") in conjunction with Uber's acquisition of Anthony Levandowski's company Otto. However, it was not until May 11th that Defendants finally, for the first time, produced the underlying acquisition documents, albeit in heavily redacted form. After Waymo objected in a conference with the Special Master, Defendants agreed to revisit the redactions, and on May 12th produced somewhat less redacted versions, which were attached as Exhibits 9, 10, and 11 to Waymo's May 16th Reply Brief. (Dkt. 445 Exs. 9, 10, and 11.) Even at this time, however, four key provisions of Exhibit C to the February 22, 2016 Term Sheet (Dkt. 445-2 (Ex. 9 to Reply) at pp. 50-59) remained redacted: (i) a paragraph titled

; and (iv) two full pages that turned out 1 paragraph; (iii) a paragraph titled 2 to be an "Attachment A," 3 At the May 25th hearing on Waymo's Motion, the Magistrate Judge ordered Uber to produce a fully un-redacted version of the Term Sheet, and provided Waymo an opportunity to 4 5 supplement the record to respond to this previously undisclosed evidence. Below, Waymo addresses this newly provided evidence, its relationship to the underlying transaction, and its 6 7 impact on Defendants' claimed privileges. 8 ARGUMENT 9 Α. Defendants Redacted Key Portions Of The Relevant Acquisition Documents. When Defendants first produced the February 22, 2016 Term Sheet relating to the Uber-10 11 Otto transaction, they did so in a way that obscured the relationship between the due diligence 12 investigation and the transaction being discussed at the time. 13 As originally produced, the February 22, 2016 Term Sheet describes a 14 ² that would provide 15 to the Term Sheet, provides that 16 Exhibit C, the 17 18 19 (Id. at -7566.) Exhibit C excludes 20 21 22 23 24 25 On April 11, 2016, the was executed in a document called (Ex. 13 at §§ 1.1, 1.2 26 provides that, prior to its effective date, The 27 (Id. at 7.) Exhibit P is described at v), but Exhibit P has not yet been produced to Waymo.

28

(Ex. 12 at -7519.)

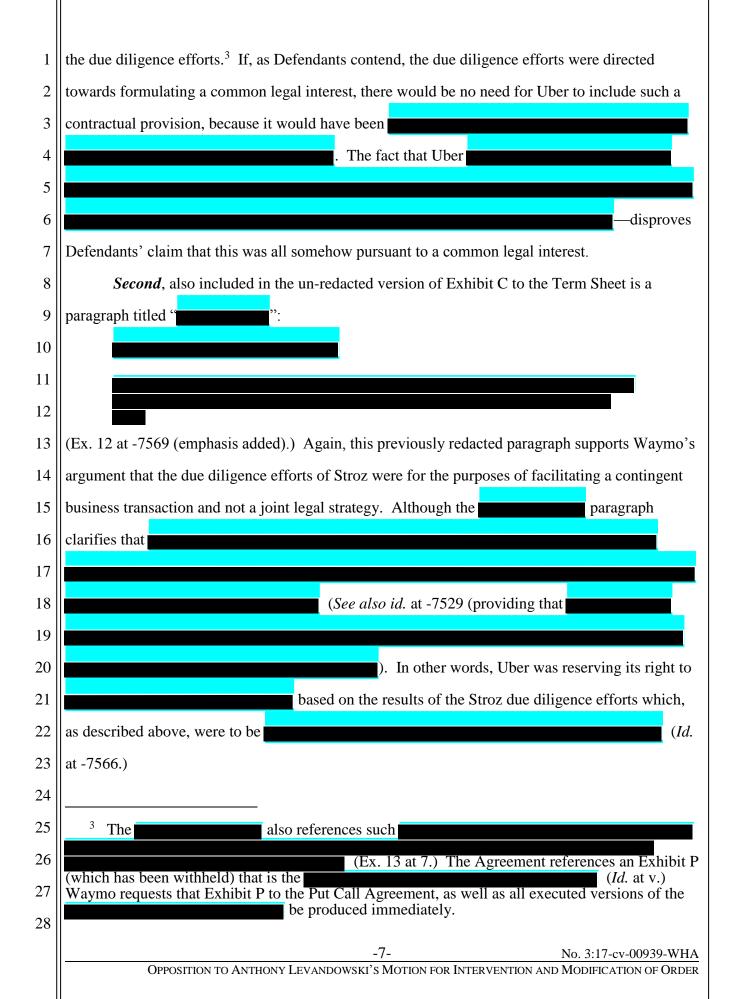

1 (Id.2 at -7566 – -7567.) 3 As Waymo argued at the May 25th hearing, this evidence strongly indicated that no possible common interest could have arisen with respect to the due diligence investigation, 4 5 because while Uber had an interest in the interest of the Diligenced Employees was Indeed, 6 7 the structure of the agreement, including the —which only provides 8 9 acknowledgement that the relevant parties held very different legal interests with respect to the proposed transaction. 10 11 Because of Defendants' improper redactions, however, the acquisition documents as originally produced provided little or no insight regarding the purpose of the due diligence efforts, 12 13 the timing of the investigation, or the procedures under which the investigation was to take place. 14 This prevented Waymo from fully understanding the relationship between the due diligence investigation and the overall transaction. As discussed below, that information, which has only 15 16 recently been produced, confirms that there is no valid privilege over the withheld due diligence materials. 17 18 В. The Unredacted Provisions Of The Term Sheet Confirm That Stroz Was Not Working At The Direction Of The Parties' Attorneys. 19 Unsurprisingly, the portions of the Term Sheet that Defendants were most reluctant to 20 disclose are also the portions that most clearly demonstrate that no valid privilege exists. For 21 example, the now un-redacted includes the following definition for the term 22 23 24 25 26 27 28

OPPOSITION TO ANTHONY LEVANDOWSKI'S MOTION FOR INTERVENTION AND MODIFICATION OF ORDER

1	(Ex. 12 at -7569 (emphasis added).) This definition makes clear that the due diligence efforts of
2	Stroz were
3	(Ex. 12 at -7569.) Notably absent from this definition is any indication that the Outside
4	Expert was directed by or engaged by
5	This eliminates any possible claim of attorney-client privilege over materials pertaining to Stroz's
6	communications with (5/25/2017 Hr'g Tr. at 41:5-11 ("And he may have been
7	involved and under what circumstances he would allow his client to be interviewed. But that's
8	very different from saying that he retained, right, that Stroz Friedberg was his agent, because you
9	agree with that, it would have to be his agent for it to be attorney-client privilege." (Emphasis
10	added).)
11	Moreover, the included as part of
12	Attachment A to the un-redacted version of Exhibit C, clarifies that Stroz was acting as
13
14	(Ex. 12 at -7572 (emphasis added).) This suggests that Stroz was not working
15	at the direction of in anticipation of litigation, but rather that Stroz was retained to
16
17
18	described in the Term Sheet. This severely undermines Defendants' contention that the Stroz
19	report and related materials are the "work product" of Uber's and Otto's attorneys. Lewis v. Wells
20	Fargo & Co., 266 F.R.D. 433, 440 (N.D. Cal. 2010) (finding that work product did not attach to
21	documents that "were not created in anticipation of litigation but rather, would have been created
22	in substantially similar form even if no litigation was anticipated.").
23	For these reasons, the newly provided evidence strongly suggests that no privilege—
24	attorney-client or work product—attaches to the due diligence materials in the first place.
25	Prepared Pursuant To A Common Legal Interest.
26	In addition, the previously redacted material makes clear that at the work of Stroz and its
27	resulting report was performed for an unprivileged business purpose, and not for formulating a

28

1	joint legal strategy on a matter of common legal interest. See Elan Microelectronics Corp. v.
2	Apple, Inc., 2011 WL 3443923, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 8, 2011) (holding that the common interest
3	doctrine "does not extend to communications about a joint business strategy that happens to
4	include a concern about litigation."); see also In re Pac. Pictures Corp., 679 F.3d 1121, 1129 (9th
5	Cir. 2012) ("[A] shared desire to see the same outcome in a legal matter is insufficient to bring a
6	communication between two parties within [the common interest] exception.").
7	First, the un-redacted version of Exhibit C to the Term Sheet now includes a paragraph
8	titled which is reproduced below:
9
0
1
2
3
4
5
6
17	(Ex. 12 at -7566 (emphasis added).) This provision makes clear that the
8	the was to be
9	In other words,
20
21	This confirms the argument that Waymo has been making all
22	along: Uber was requiring the due diligence process not because it was preparing a joint legal
23	strategy with the Diligenced Employees, but rather because it was investigating whether
24	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
25	Further reinforcing this conclusion is the requirement that the
26	in regards to
27
28
- 1

1	improper. See O'Connor v. Boeing N. Am., Inc., 185 F.R.D. 272, 280 (C.D. Cal. 1999) ("As to
2	documents subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product doctrine, the plaintiffs are
3	correct in contending that not all attachments to, or enclosures with, such documents are
4	necessarily protected by the privilege.").
5	At a minimum, the revelation that the Stroz due diligence efforts were directed towards
6	compiling underlying factual material
7	confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the "and a second property of the confirms that the
8	and not "opinion" work product that should be produced to satisfy Waymo's "substantial need" for
9	these materials in light of the Mr. Levandowski's assertion of the Fifth Amendment privilege.
0	Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1); In re John Doe Corp., 675 F.2d 482, 492 & n.10 (2d Cir. 1982)
1	(substantial need shown where "potential witnesses have invoked the privilege against self-
2	incrimination"). Thus, particularly in light of the newly revealed evidence, Defendants should be
3	compelled to produce all relevant due diligence materials.
4	CONCLUSION
5	For the foregoing reasons, as well as those stated in Waymo's Opening (Dkt. 321) and
6	Reply Briefs (Dkt. 444), Waymo respectfully requests that the Motion be granted in full.
7
8
9	DATED: May 30, 2017 QUINN EMANUEL URQUHART & SULLIVAN, LLP
20	By /s/Charles K. Verhoeven
21	Charles K. Verhoeven
22	Attorneys for WAYMO LLC
23
24
25
26
27
28			